

VerbalBusiness.com Launches New Phone-Driven Expense Management, Contact Management and Verbal Email Suite

VerbalBusiness.com's new suite of business applications saves time, money, and hassle by letting users record business expenses, manage contact information, and send verbal emails through their phone.

TORONTO, Ontario (PRWeb) September 28, 2009 -- VerbalBusiness.com (<http://www.verbalbusiness.com>) today launched an innovative all-in-one expense management, contact management, and verbal email suite that lets users access critical business data anytime and anywhere through their phone.

Designed as a time saving, money saving, and hassle saving solution for self-employed professionals and SMEs, registered users simply call VerbalBusiness.com's toll free number to track and manage their ongoing business expenses, or quickly access a wealth of contact management data. They can also choose to send a verbal email by "speaking" the message into their phone, which then arrives in their recipient's inbox as an .mp3 attachment. Recipients simply click the link and hear the original message exactly as it was spoken; it's not damaged or diminished by unperfected, error-prone speech-to-text software.

Users can also create, modify, summarize, and import/export expense information, or create and modify contact information by logging into their account at VerbalBusiness.com. Additionally, users can save long distance charges and take advantage of their cell/wireless plan with unlimited incoming minutes by using VerbalBusiness.com's toll-saver feature, which instructs the system to automatically call them right back; upon answering, it's as if users themselves called into the system.

"From email to expense tracking to contact management, VerbalBusiness.com eliminates the need for users to be front of a computer in order to access their critical data," states Brian Campbell, VerbalBusiness.com's Chief Technology Officer. "Users save time, save money, and save the hassle of expensive contact management software, plus they avoid having to buy a costly smartphone with an even costlier monthly usage plan. It's the business data management suite that self-employed business professionals and SMEs have been waiting for – and it's finally here."

As part of its launch event, VerbalBusiness.com is offering free 30-day trial memberships, with no credit card required at sign-up. Users can create an unlimited number of expense accounts, expenses, expense reports, contacts, phone numbers, email addresses, and IM addresses, and send an unlimited number of verbal emails. Users can also extend their free trial for another 30 days by referring one new user, or another 60 days by referring two new users. After the trial period, users will be invited to subscribe at $9.95/month – about .30 cents a day; even less after business tax deductions.

Potential users and other interested parties can learn more about VerbalBusiness.com's innovative time, money, and hassle-saving expense and contact management suite by visiting <http://www.verbalbusiness.com>.

About VerbalBusiness.com

VerbalBusiness.com delivers a simple, fast and cost-effective alternative to the bloated, expensive and just plain inconvenient expense and contact management suites available in the marketplace today. VerbalBusiness.com provides a useful service to customers at a fair monthly price; is committed to keeping fees extremely reasonable for the long-term; aims to offer the highest levels of customer service; is driven to constantly improve its service by adding new features; and is always open to feedback. Learn more at VerbalBusiness.com.